REMOTE CONTROL ACCESS FOR A SAFER ENTRY

Security entrances help manage the varying flow of traffic through your lobby or reception. Employees have the ability to use their badges to pass through the building securely, but for visitors, the intervention of a security guard or receptionist may be required. This is where the BoonTouch remote control panel comes in, giving personnel the ability to quickly and easily bypass or change the operation of any given entrance remotely.

OVERVIEW

The BoonTouch remote control panel allows receptionists and security guards to easily and quickly allow access to different visitors securely. The panel has a capacitive touchscreen which allows for authorized personnel the ability to operate all linked security solutions within the building via a simple touch.

AN INTUITIVE AND VARIABLE SOLUTION

With the help of interface experts and after extensive usability testing, Boon Edam has created a clear and simple design that is intuitive to operate. The control panel can manage up to six different security access solutions remotely from a reception or security desk. The user-friendly interface allows for each entrance to be operated individually or simultaneously.

HOW IT WORKS

BoonTouch gives those managing the facility full control over the bank of entry products installed. Alerts that have been set off by unauthorized access are shown on the display screen to highlight exact areas of breaches. Each security entrance can be controlled individually. This functionality means that even if certain lanes or doors are not in use or must be locked down, the rest of the entrances can still be operated. The system also allows for flexibility in that different permission levels are available for users – making management safe, easy and effective.
